THE WHEAT CORNER AND THE CORNERERS .fruit, and from various directions comes the news of an increase in the price of flour and bread. The situation is one that ought not to be passed over in silence. No reason for any increase exists, apart from the havec wrought by speculators. On them, and them alone, must the odium rest. They are directly conspirators against the peace of the country, and deserve no better or other consideration than is accorded to other plotters. The anarchists jeopardized the peace of a city; the former of a country. Suppose, by way of illustration, that any of the class who enrich themselves by gambling in the necessaries of life, should buy up the wheat crop of the country, and then hold it, only selling at fabulous prices, as they might do, it would not be long before the cry of "Bread or blood!" would be heard in every State, and when such a state comes, the first drop of blood split becomes a spark to enkindle the vast turbulent mass to be found in every great centre of population. Most of the great riots that have occurred in our history had as an excuse for their origin some outrage upon the people, under cover of which the lawless element has hastened to seize the opportunity to burn and pillage, and no cry could be more effective than the cry for bread.—Ealt.
